BIO

Josh Stifter began his filmmaking adventure crafting short movies with his friends after school everyday. He pursued animation in college and quickly found a job directing cartoons for director Kevin Smith. After years of creating shorts and animated films, Josh has decided to tackle features, jumping at the opportunity to make his first full length film with Robert Rodriguez. He has worked with companies such as Troma, Troublemaker Studios, CNN, SModco, and El Rey Network. Josh is also the owner and director of the award winning film and animation company Flush Studios.
